AIPC Welcomes New Members: Auditorio y Centro de Congresos Región de Murcia

The Auditorio y Centro de Congresos Región de Murcia is one of the most prominent conference and exhibition facilities in Spain, hosting a variety of events every year including the Congress of the European Society for Paediatric Gastroenterology, Hepatology and Nutrition. It is located in the city of Murcia, an inhabited area of over 250,000 people, and enjoys a 16,200-square-meter exhibition area.

AIPC Has Strong Presence at IMEX

AIPC, the International Association of Convention Centres, has a long-standing tradition of presence at IMEX, the leading international trade fair for event organizers. AIPC members are represented throughout the show at stand D464, providing an opportunity for exhibitors and AIPC members to network and discuss the latest industry developments.

AIPC Educational Programs for 2003

AIPC offers a range of educational programs designed to help member facilitators in a variety of training areas. Details are available to any of these courses, contact the AIPC Secretariat Office.

AIPC Research Survey Identifies Member Priorities

A survey completed by AIPC members in 2002 revealed some interesting trends. The most important item on the list of priorities was benchmarking, new trends and environmental impact as the highest priorities. The need for documentation and research in these areas is in areas unlikely to be the subject of anyone else's research, particularly useful since the results are directly applicable to member's interests, they are in areas unlikely to be the subject of anyone else's research, particularly useful since the results are directly applicable to member's interests.
The Scandinavian Perspective: What makes a country with very few eligible refugees fight for asylum of displaced environmental refugees? Commissioner asked Ann Vihinen

The Scandinavian Perspective: What makes a country with very few eligible refugees fight for asylum of displaced environmental refugees? Commissioner asked Ann Vihinen

The Scandinavian Perspective: What makes a country with very few eligible refugees fight for asylum of displaced environmental refugees? Commissioner asked Ann Vihinen

The Scandinavian Perspective: What makes a country with very few eligible refugees fight for asylum of displaced environmental refugees? Commissioner asked Ann Vihinen

New Palace of Conferences Raises Hopes for La Coruña Post Oil Shores

Since June 1999, the New Palace of Conferences opened in La Coruña, Spain, has been raising hopes. The new building, located in a very busy commercial area, was designed to provide a high level of environmental protection. The New Palace of Conferences is a modern building that meets all the latest environmental standards. It is designed to minimize energy consumption and to reduce its environmental impact. The New Palace of Conferences is a major player in La Coruña's post-oil shores.

The Centre des Congrès de Québec Focuses on “Green” Management

The Centre des Congrès de Québec (CCQ) is a major player in the Canadian events industry. The CCQ is committed to promoting environmentally sustainable practices and is aiming to become the leading centre in the country for environmentally friendly events. The CCQ is recognized for its efforts in reducing its environmental footprint and is continually striving to improve its sustainability practices. The CCQ’s approach to green management is focused on reducing energy consumption, using environmentally friendly products and materials, and promoting sustainable practices. The CCQ is an industry leader in promoting environmentally sustainable events and is committed to setting a new standard for the industry.

AIPC Seeking Proposals for 2005 Annual Conference

With great progress shaping up for Mannheim in 2003 and Edinburgh in 2004, AIPC’s next annual conference will be hosted by the city of Québec, Canada. This annual conference will be held at the Centre des Congrès de Québec and is expected to be a major event for the events industry. The conference will bring together industry professionals from around the world to discuss the latest trends and developments in the events industry. The Centre des Congrès de Québec is the largest convention centre in Canada and is located in the heart of the city of Québec. The centre is a major player in the Canadian events industry and is committed to promoting environmentally sustainable practices. The Centre des Congrès de Québec is recognized for its efforts in reducing its environmental footprint and is continually striving to improve its sustainability practices. The Centre des Congrès de Québec is an industry leader in promoting environmentally sustainable events and is committed to setting a new standard for the industry.

On Track for Mannheim!

As the 2003 AIPC Annual Conference and 45th General Assembly is set to conclude in the historic city of Mannheim this May, the momentum for next year’s events conference will be evident in the city of Québec, Canada. The 2005 AIPC Annual Conference and 45th General Assembly will be held at the Centre des Congrès de Québec and is expected to be a major event for the events industry. The conference will bring together industry professionals from around the world to discuss the latest trends and developments in the events industry. The Centre des Congrès de Québec is the largest convention centre in Canada and is located in the heart of the city of Québec. The centre is a major player in the Canadian events industry and is committed to promoting environmentally sustainable practices. The Centre des Congrès de Québec is recognized for its efforts in reducing its environmental footprint and is continually striving to improve its sustainability practices. The Centre des Congrès de Québec is an industry leader in promoting environmentally sustainable events and is committed to setting a new standard for the industry.

Meet AIPC Board Member Pierre Gillot

AIPC Board member Pierre Gillot is the new President of the French Congress and Convention Industry Association (ACES). He succeeds Jean-Pierre Calvez as the new head of the association. Gillot is a seasoned professional with over 25 years of experience in the events industry. He has held a number of senior positions in the industry, including chief executive officer of the French Congress and Convention Industry Association. Gillot is a strong advocate for the events industry and is committed to promoting environmentally sustainable practices. He has a strong track record of achievement and is an industry leader in promoting environmentally sustainable events and is committed to setting a new standard for the industry.

Valjak Named Professor

Veselko Valjak, Director of Criterion Communications Canada, has been named professor at the Stadthalle Osnabrück in Germany. Valjak is a seasoned professional with over 25 years of experience in the events industry. He has held a number of senior positions in the industry, including chief executive officer of the French Congress and Convention Industry Association. Valjak is a strong advocate for the events industry and is committed to promoting environmentally sustainable practices. He has a strong track record of achievement and is an industry leader in promoting environmentally sustainable events and is committed to setting a new standard for the industry.

A great story even at last minute's notice

AIPC’s Pierre Jouan describes how a single e-mail was all it needed to turn a problematic situation around. AIPC was facing a major challenge in securing the next major conference for our association, the 2004 AIPC Annual Conference. The conference was scheduled to be held in Edinburgh, but a last minute change in plans left us with a difficult situation to handle. AIPC’s Pierre Jouan was able to turn the situation around with a single e-mail, and the conference was a resounding success. The story of his success is a testament to the power of communication and the ability of our association to adapt in even the most difficult situations.