• That plan to move towards an in-house congress organization in the near future, an area that has seen significant growth in recent years.

• AIPC will soon be announcing a new initiative to help congress and convention centres meet membership criteria.

• As a result of this initiative, AIPC has developed a new classification system for congress and convention centres.

• This classification system includes five levels: from level 1, which represents the lowest standard, to level 5, which represents the highest.

• Each level is characterized by a set of entry qualifications, which are enforced by site inspections and used to assess the quality of a centre.

• High-quality conference facilities and the Centre’s strong international reputation mean that it is regarded as one of the top convention venues in the world.

Valencia Convention Centre Plays Role in Securing America’s Cup 2007

The 32nd America's Cup is set to sail in Valencia as the host city. The Valencia Convention Centre (VCC) has provided logistical support and has been an integral part of the America's Cup Protocol. The Protocol was established in 1987 to govern the Americas Cup, and it has been a powerful tool in ensuring the success of the event. The Protocol outlines the rules and regulations for the Cup, including the venue selection process, the financial arrangements, and the procedures for organizing the event. The Protocol is widely respected and is considered to be one of the most important elements of the Americas Cup. It is an integral part of the competition and is essential for ensuring the success of the event.
